VINEYARDS & CELLAR

Beck Vineyard, in the Creston District of Paso Robles, is a unique, high elevation site that sits at 1,700 feet above the early morning fog line in the remote La Panza mountain range. The site's chalky, devigorating soils and full sun exposure produce small but intensely concentrated berries with luxurious depth of color and flavor.

The hand-harvested grapes were destemmed and berry-sorted at the winery, followed by a 18% saignée which brought concentration to the must prior to fermentation. A short, eight-day maceration revealed superb color potential with ideal tannin extraction prior to pressing.

Aged 20 months in 94% new French oak from coopers
Berger, Nadalié, Demptos, and Taransaud.
